A handwriting practice sheet for the Japanese character 'ち'. The sheet is organized into a grid of 20 rows by 6 columns. Each cell in the grid contains a single character 'ち', written in a light gray ink. The grid is set against a background of horizontal and vertical black lines, creating a ruled paper effect. The first column of each row is slightly taller than the subsequent columns.

A handwriting practice sheet for the Japanese character 'ち'. The sheet is organized into a grid of 16 rows and 10 columns. Each cell in the grid contains a single character 'ち', written in a light gray ink. The first 15 rows follow a standard stroke order: a vertical downstroke from top to bottom, followed by a diagonal downstroke from the middle of the vertical stroke to its right tip, and finally a small horizontal loop at the bottom right. The last row, however, is a simplified version of the character, consisting only of the vertical downstroke and the diagonal downstroke meeting at a point without the bottom loop. This grid provides a structured environment for practicing the formation and placement of the character.
